that he desires to see it in no other form - the ancient being to his taste far better than the modern. The King of Bohemia (like the present King of Hanover) was blind, & in the Battle of Mollath (as another at all these times) he took with a long staff in his hand, as you see & guide.

I have seen King George of Hanover riding with one on either side. I have said that the King of Bohemia wore the feathers as I represent them on the opposite side —

I have said that the King of Bohemia wore them, but as I have heard the point argued between the Prince of Wales & the Prince Louis of Hesse, I am inclined to go with the former in the idea that the King did not wear the motto, but his knights — id's Diene — "I serve" — the Prince of Wales says "they stand together the King in time of need." each therefore bore the motto "I serve". For as the P of W asks "who could the K of Bohemia have served? & acknowledged it? & indeed the Prince Louis answers "The King of France!" Therefore that is not the question in which you wish to engage me — but simply how the feathers & motto were placed. Now.

Truly I give it just as you may see it on the tomb of Edward Prince of Wales, the son of Edward the 3rd. This last page is as I deem it must be a "P.S." I have & thank you for your kindness & my wish

Edward Henry Corbould's involves time at Knebworth about drawings of 1st Earl of Gloucester

Knobworth Park,
Strivenage.

29 Eldon Lodge. Victoria Road. Kensington
To Charles Kent Esq. &c &c. . May 4th 1882.

Dear Sir I am in receipt of your letter of yesterday's date - & will to the best of my ability - say how it came to pass that I illustrated Lord Lytton's "Lost Tales of Miletus." For some years I used to paint for two houses (almost exclusively). One was at Osborne
- and owned by Her Majesty: whilst the other was at Belper & owned by my friend George H. Strutt. Time came, when there remained no wall spaces whereupon to hang a work of art - (though occasionally I do even now paint a picture - w^h necessitates the removal of some other in order to make room for it.) How many pictures there may be of mine in the Isle of Wight, at Osborne, I do not know - but it amounts to a goodly few; whilst at Belper in Derbyshire - pictures cover the walls of the staircase, w^h is wide & splendidly lighted. Two of my pictures have to be placed on easels in two of the rooms - but where the picture of Marcella (at present in the Institute of Painters, in Water Colours) is to be hung - I have not the faintest idea.
The Queen has before now said to me "If I see a picture of yours - w^h I would wish to possess - it generally turns out to have been commissioned by Mrs Strutt! Mrs Strutt therefore - stands in my way!" Latterly - for 15 in 1 of Wall space - the Struths have had some favourite book illustrated - not in colours - but in ordinary Office ink. In this way I did a set to be bound up with a large copy (broad margin) of Tennyson's "Poems of the King" &c and The lost tales of Milesius. Her Majesty wished to see these illustrations to Tennyson, & accordingly I wrote to borrow them. Mr & Mrs Struth were about to start for Switzerland - so they at once brought them to London - and as I had to go to Osborne, I took them there. The Queen was pleased to be pleased with them, & asked me whether I thought Mrs Struth wd object to Her having them photographed - in order to bind up with her copy? and I said that Mrs Struth was not in England - but that I was quite certain that she wd be content with Her Majesty doing as she pleased in the matter. The Queen had suggested - the taking a single set - for one copy of the Poets work - but acting upon the notion that Mrs Struth would raise no objection of any kind - large sets and smaller sets were taken - and thus even one of the Royal Family had them. - a set were sent to me, & some sets large & small were forwarded to Belvoir. The Queen afterwards had a dozen pictures taken down from the walls at Osborne - & photographed by James Hughes of Ryde. - & sent them to Mrs Struth, who again in her turn, had the illustrations to Lord Lytton's "Lost Tales of Milesius" - 12 in number - photographed and sent them to Her Majesty. I conclude therefore that the illustrations you allude to - are photographs from my ink illustrations to Lord Lytton's work. but whether sent to his Lordship by the Queen or by Mrs. Sturt - I am quite unable to say.

Doubtless there are gross errors in some of them, for candidly speaking - I had never read the lost tales - when I was called upon to illustrate them.
No artist - ought to attempt to render either the writings of the late Lord Lytton, or Alf. Tennyson without seriously studying the subject to get at the true feeling of the Poet. You express a wish to know "The circumstances under which they were originally produced - whether they were pencilled with a view to publication - whether in fact the idea of the series originated with Author, Artist, or Publisher?"

From what I have stated - you will gather how it all came to pass - though possibly I have so jumbled the matter - that after all you may be almost as much in doubt as though I had never written.

Yours very sincerely Edward Henry Corbould

P.S. Should this explanation prove insufficient - I beg you will not hesitate to say so - and I will then endeavor to obtain a more substantial version from headquarters. I have but the one set of photos v^l were sent to me - but had I a duplicate set - I should at once have sent them to you for yourself, (as you appear to have taken so much interest in the subject!) - & then you could have satisfied yourself as to whether they are identical with those found in the Portfolio of Drawings at Knebworth Park.

At any time I shall be most happy to furnish particulars & talk over matters of any kind within my ken - & am mostly to be found at all hours here in my den. Campden Grove is not far from this part of Kensington.

To Mr Joseph Mallett.

Dr Sir - I have this afternoon received my son (Mr Arthur Corbould) first note from Australia - in which he says - among other things "I wish Mr Mallett whose Printing Establishment is somewhere in Warden Street - Soho - not to break up the type for Catalogues of John Martin's last judgment - Pictures - & also that Mr Cooper who printed the key plate for same) would not destroy the plate, as may require some more printed soon - in fact may save a score. I fear his note reaches you." - This being The Case - perhaps you would ^{kindly} look to the matter - so that even should such a trifling order ^{suddenly} come - that 500 - or 5,000

Copies are required & be much off - and packed in a box, with tin lining - the order may not come so suddenly, as to find you totally unprepared to execute it forthwith. The order has not yet come.

- but evidently from what my son says, may come to me "suddenly" - when you shall hear from me immediately.

Yours very truly

Eldon Lodge. Victoria R.^d Kensington.

Dear Sir August 29th 1874.

Respecting the designs for the Midtemarsh B.^d Note - it would seem that since no one is exactly able to see precisely what it ought to consist of - the way would be to come at it from the opposite direction
- by finding out what to avoid making it.

I have thought a great deal on the subject as to what would be best, but have arrived at nothing remarkably good or definite.

I will, in the course of two or three days send you a sketch or two, w^h may possibly tend to suggest something of a wholly different character. but whatever suggestions may come from your house shall be treated with the utmost care here. There is not so great a difficulty in managing the small circle as the larger one.

There are it is true a whole heap of subjects which if written down within circles - won't soon begin to take such shape in your mind, as to make subjects sketched out - in order that we may arrive at some definite conclusion. And upon that - it is most likely that I shall be able without much difficulty to meet your wish. This I think will be about the best in the shortest way! That method which I at first suggested - viz making strips of all sorts of things - until at last I get upon something that appears somewhat nearer the mark - it will be a long round about way - tiresome to me & without profit to you. One rough sample of a subject that would not engrave well for a Bank note - I here enclose - for Can Cast your eye on it & then throw it into the waste paper basket.

For the next week I shall be engaged at work as possible, as busy as the Devil in a gale of wind - in order to complete something I have in hand - prior to my leaving town. Whilst away I will do my best not to neglect your business although I go for relaxation & pleasure. I start next Saturday afternoon - & go only to Reigate in Surrey at first, where I shall stay for some weeks & then go to the coast. My brother Dr. Cobbold visits at Reigate - & a note addressed to me at Sonning Lodge (his house) will be handed to me soon. I go with my family, & we are too many to be accommodated within his house, so we shall be at some hotel or other convenient place.

There will be no need for you to send any immediate reply to this. The only matter for consideration at present - is, whether heads of those who caused so much trouble to the great Caesar - viz CASSIVELAUNUS & BOADICEA would be suitable for circles and if so - what subject wd do for the upright It is no very easy matter to settle upon a subject, nor is it too easy to make the design, when the subject is determined on. - for instance - what is more easy than to say "We will have Boadicea the Queen of the Iceni in a chariot with her two daughters surrounded by her half wild British Troops; and we will you to show upon a rising ground, in a chariot - Caesar surrounded by his Cohorts." (?) However you may at all times rely on my endeavor to do the best in your service. Sometimes I can't do a stroke for anyone but myself, but that is not just at present I am yours obediently

Dear Ward The result of your investigation of the work of Act (supposed to have been painted by Jim Zacher) I have communicated to my brother-in-law at Ross - and have this morning received from him a note in reply - where he says that, your verdict being according to your judgment, what it has been - the very next thing for him to suppose - is - that he will have to pay the bet of 5! By the way I did not myself open the box ^{as you said} by L.P.D.C. - & I thought my wife had - but she tells me she did not - that when it arrived, it was in a state of any fastening shattering - & the wooden cover - that you called a ^{box} ^{became} - named it - can I have that? I did not know (when locking the picture & trying to run home) that just in about two months nails - to steady the piece of wood & I found the top of packing case split & just the cord around it. You note must have been confining in some marvellous manner by these nails having been there & time killed its escape - for it had been pierced through & through - & now the wood - covering its porous & existence and great stability. Yours very truly

My Dear Sir,
I regret I am not able to aid you in the matter upon which you wrote in your note. I very much regret it, but still although I am personally powerless, there are those who can render you any possible help in the shape of necessary information &c.
Now every body says it is the best & the shortest and the surest way to get at any kind of water - to go to the Fountain-head.

Why not then go to my friend Warren who is the President of the New Water Company?

My Dear Sir,

I have not been able to get on with your drawings as - could have wished. I got on with the rest of the 1st. I have been extremely busy of my late work. I have been unfortunately hindered in every way. I had just come off from Windsor - one week was finished before I left home on Saturday, but looking at the book again I doubt the first. I find that in the last book you "The White Swan" is described as being a "very nice" one, and I had then to see that before you send them to me. I shall have the other soon.

Yours truly
J. W. H. H. H.

I enclose a letter to Mr. Jones & have been down at Windsor making drawings. I made two portraits for the Prince & the other for H.M. I am sure you will be satisfied.

Dear William

Although I had received a note from my brothers (Proctors) with a view that he was approaching his end & had expressed a desire to see me - I postponed going down to Durham till tomorrow - owing to a violent act towards you here this evening. Your works sent were received with great pleasure by the members and were considered as a tremendous stride in the right direction. Nevertheless the votes just fell short of the proper number.
I cannot tell you how greatly I felt disappointed at such an unlooked for result!

You could not any how feel more so than I did. However it may be a sort of consolation to hear that the same fate attended the election of the son (aged 30) of one of our oldest & most highly esteemed members, as well as many others who were proposed &c.
Your drawings certainly took a far higher standing than any others which were brought before the members. I felt so confident of your election, that my disappointment was proportionately great. I don't know whether I ought to lure you forward & try again. I am thoroughly disgusted and will therefore say no more, but leave the matter in your hands. Yours ever truly Edw. W. Gould.

This is the line of masonry which will be built by Mr. Coker for the garden. Although the line is not yet put in, it is so. I put in a line of masonry & received a day of my promise.

The end of Mr. Coker's garden is to me - 24th Mar 1859.

His note of his trade people might not look as it appeared at the side of the garden. I don't think I should be able to alter the sketch into his garden from the sketch.

Edw. J. Coker

doubtless Mr. Coker's garden will well remember the open space between the wall & the trellis work? & will find it difficult to determine it since I have built up to it?

My dear Sir

The Princess Alice having made a sketch from your representation of "King Lear" and being desirous of making a drawing for the Queen (to be kept a secret till after it is presented on 24th inst) requested me this afternoon to witness the scene that I might more fully understand her feeling of the subject, and thus be enabled to render her such trifling aid as occasion might suggest. For this purpose I have come in the hope that there may be a corner of your box into which you would allow me to creep. & from which tion to you - than by forcing myself into your august presence to ask the question -

Respecting your kindness in sending a
